IV. Teachers use technology to enhance their productivity and professional practice

Learner Outcomes:

This course is designed to enable students to:

1. evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of research studies within various paradigms, including action research, using measures of rigor;
2. propose and complete an action research project that includes an overview, contextual statement, review of the literature, methodology, data analysis, conclusions, reflections and relationship to practice;
3. make explicit links between theory and practice in their own action research;
4. examine ethical considerations when conducting research with children including their own project;
5. explain the critical importance of considering multiple perspectives using different approaches to inquiry; and,
6. demonstrate leadership in conducting class discussions and presenting their action research projects to others.

Course Requirements:

A. Discussion (10%): Discussions will be assessed through weekly online discussions or forum postings, informed participation in class discussions, “critical friend” analysis of action research components, case studies and review of readings. All discussions will be held using online communication tools or on Blackboard and the grade will be based on participation.

B. Readings/Journal Entries (10%): Each student will keep a critical reading log of the assigned chapters. In each entry the student will briefly summarize the chapter, and reflect on salient points in regard to class discussion, other readings and their action research project. Each entry should address the following points, “Here’s what, So what, Now what” or similar (All 10 entries required for maximum 10 points, minimum 5 entries required for 5 points including quality, depth of analysis, and mechanics.) Reflections will be posted and responded to on Blackboard at least weekly.

C. Action Research Study: Three components comprise the final grade for the Action Research Project.

1. Drafts of Action Research Proposal (20%): A draft of each section of the action research study will be available for class discussion on the specified date and a copy of the section turned into the instructor for review:

20 points = 6 of 6 of drafts completed for thoughtful class discussion and critique

15 points = 4 of 6 of drafts completed for thoughtful discussion and critique.

10 points = 3 of 6 drafts completed for thoughtful discussion and critique.

5 points = 1-2 of 6 drafts completed for thoughtful discussion and critique.

2. Presentation of Action Research (25%) (Performance Based Assessment): Each student will present his/her Action Research to the class and outside guests. Each presentation will consist of the following elements: Introduction, Research Questions, Methodology, Findings, and Implications for Practice. Each presenter will provide an executive summary and a brief list of important resources. Following the presentation the presenter will engage in a Question/Answer session with the audience. The presentations will be evaluated on: clarity, understanding of the process of action research, articulation of the implications for practice, communication skills, and use of technology.
3. Final Action Research Paper (35%): Each student will write a report which includes the following sections: Introduction, Literature Review, Methodology, Analysis (with accompanying samples/examples), Findings, Implications for Practice, and Reflections. (Additional information will be provided). All papers must follow APA, 5th edition, format.

CEHD Course Expectations

The College of Education and Human Development expects that all students abide by the following:

- Students are expected to exhibit professional behavior and dispositions (see <http://www.gse.gmu.edu> for a list of these dispositions).
- Students must follow the guidelines of the University Honor Code (see http://www.gmu.edu/catalog/apolicies/#TOC\_H12 for the full Honor Code).
- Students must agree to abide by the university policy for Responsible Use of Computing (see <http://mail.gmu.edu>).

Online Participation/Attendance Policy

Students are expected to participate in all online discussions and attend all classes of courses for which they register. Online and class participation is important not only to the individual student, but to the class as whole. Online and class participation is a factor in grading; instructors may use class absence, absence of postings, tardiness in posting or attendance, or cursory postings as de facto evidence of nonparticipation and as a result lower the grade as stated in the course syllabus.
