University Catalog Course Description

Focuses on critical reflection regarding effects of teacher actions on others; develops skills as a reflective practitioner; presents research-based rationales for instructional decision-making.

Course Description

The internship seminar is a course taken during students' internship experience. The seminar is an ongoing exchange in which interns are both participants and developers. Interns are expected to share their own experiences in their classrooms and school communities. Inquiry-based learning students engage in and discuss what it means to participate in an ongoing process of professional development as teachers and life-long learners.

Course Delivery Method

The seminar will be delivered completely online with the use of synchronous and asynchronous class sessions (see schedule for specific dates). The goal of the seminar is to reflect and share our teaching practices and experiences. You'll be asked to complete weekly reflections, in-class assignments and participate in synchronous and asynchronous activities that support your teaching. You'll also be collaborating and supporting your critical friends throughout the semester (more on this below).

Under no circumstances, may candidates/students participate in online class sessions (either by phone or Internet) while operating motor vehicles. Further, as expected in a face-to-face class meeting, such online participation requires undivided attention to course content and communication.

Technical Requirements

To participate in this course, students will need to satisfy the following technical requirements:

- High-speed Internet access with a standard up-to-date browser, either Internet Explorer or Mozilla Firefox is required (note: Opera and Safari are not compatible with Blackboard).

- Apple QuickTime Player: www.apple.com/quicktime/download/

Course Learning Outcomes/Objectives

In concert with the goals and objectives of the Secondary Education internship to develop skills as a reflective practitioner, in the internship seminar students will:

Assignments

Class Participation (weekly):

Your attendance and participation at your school and seminar sessions is critical not only to your own success, but to that of your colleagues. Attendance and participation are expected in both your classroom and in seminars, but emergencies do arise. Please notify your cooperating teacher and your supervisor if you will be tardy or absent from your internship or seminar. Excessive late arrivals, lack of preparation, and any unsatisfactory absence—one that is not pre-arranged and/or approved by an instructor—will severely and negatively impact your grade. Projects late due to unsatisfactory absences will be accepted at the discretion of the instructor. Attendance and completion of seminar assignments can affect whether or not you successfully complete your internship.

It is your responsibility to come to class with insights, questions, comments, and concerns based on your internship experience. The quality of our conversations and your growth will be largely based on your commitment to engaging deeply with your student teaching experience. In order to reflect on your own learning and to be ready to discuss your insights, questions you have based on your experiences.

Becoming a Reflective Practitioner (10 reflections, see schedule below):

You are becoming a professional teacher and a part of the profession is being able to reflect on your practice. Be open to new experiences, ideas, challenges, and your continuous professional development. To guide you through this process you'll be writing 10 reflections (total of 50 points) throughout your internship. On Blackboard you'll find guiding questions each week a reflection is due. Use the guiding questions to guide your written reflection for that week.

*NOTE: You may turn in the same reflection that you turn in your university supervisor.

Lesson Plan In-class Reflection and Discussion (selected date):

On a selected date you will present to the class a success, problem, concern, question, etc. that you faced during one of your lessons. This will be an opportunity for you to explore your teaching practices in order to further evaluate, reflect on, and improve your teaching. Your peers will respond to questions, success, concern by providing suggestions, ideas, questions. Be sure to provide context to your teaching, such as the grade level you teach, subject area, number of students you have and any other pertinent information.

You are required to also actively provide feedback, suggestions, and critically question your peers during their lesson discussion.

Attendance Policy

Attendance in the course is mandatory. If you cannot come to a specific class session due to a schedule conflict, notify the instructor at least one week in advance for an excused absence. Attendance is tied into your participation grade. If you are not in class, you are not participating.

Late Work

Work is due on the announced due date. All late work will incur a penalty of 10 percent for each day late. The only exception to this is for those students with excused absences (see Attendance Policy above).

Course Requirements

All assignments should be turned in on the due date indicated in the schedule below via Blackboard (unless directed otherwise) by midnight. All projects must be typed, in 12-point font, with one inch margins, double-spaced, in Times New Roman font. Professional writing quality (including mechanics, organization, and content) is expected in each writing assignment, so please proofread carefully. Late papers and projects will not be accepted without penalty (10% each day late), excepting extraordinary circumstances. See instructor with questions and concerns about assignments, expectations, or seminar activities.
